with dynamite if he were still in the creek. The dynamite was placed in the creek and exploded. The dynamite was placed in the creek and exploded. The dynamite was placed in the creek and exploded.

County Detective Smith of Freehold and Recorder Van Hook of Freehold had charge of the work of looking for young sharks. They were not far away when Fisher was pulled under. They were in a boat and helped to drag him out with the assistance of George Bell and Arthur Smith.

Many stories were told to-night by persons who said they had seen what they believed to be fins of sharks as they swam up and down the creek. Thomas Cottrell, a fisherman, said he was sure he saw an eight foot shark jump out of the creek from the mouth about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He was confident this was the one that attacked the two boys and the man. The fact that so many were bitten within such a short time led many to believe more than one shark was responsible.

Conservation Along Coast.

An hour after the tragedy not a person was to be found in the water from Barnegat Bay to Matawan. Mothers ran to the banks of the creek shrieking and dragged their small sons out of the water. Old time fishermen shook their heads sadly and warned all hands not to go bathing for a while. They pressed not to understand how sharks took it into their heads to travel so far inland and said such things were unheard of before.

Along the Jersey coast, now thronged with summer visitors, telephone messages from Matawan caused consternation. Arrangements were made by bathing house keepers who had not already placed protecting nets around their beaches to do so at once.

It is understood an effort will be made by people prominently identified with the management of Jersey resorts to enlist the assistance of Gov. Fielder in obtaining State aid to hunt down and destroy the shark or sharks which have been causing deaths in water hitherto considered absolutely safe.

This is the third time since July 2 that sharks have killed bathers along the Jersey coast. On that day Charles E. Van Sant, a young Philadelphia, met his death at Beach Haven. Four days later Charles Bruder of Springfield was attacked 100 feet beyond the safe bathing limits at that place and he legs were bitten off.

At Coney Island last night bathhouse keepers said that although they didn't think there was much danger, sharks would visit that resort, they are going to take precautions against their coming. Lifeguards will be sent in boats beyond the lifelines to look out for their possible approach. If necessary, they said, the men will be armed with rifles. It has also been proposed to have fishermen stationed on the pier with baited shark hooks.

At the next meeting of the Coney Island Board of Trade, to which most of the bathhouse proprietors belong, the question of taking measures to protect bathers against attacks by sharks will be considered from every angle.

MANY SHARKS, SAYS FIELDER.

Governor Advises Continued Use of Patrol Boats.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 12.—Gov. Fielder said to-night he didn't know just what the State of New Jersey could do to rid its waters of sharks.

The State Fish and Game Commission, he said, has jurisdiction over the coast and its inlets. This may prove to be a matter requiring a special appropriation, and the Legislature is not in session. Probably the most practical programme is to continue and extend the use of patrol boats. In view of recent events, I am satisfied there are many sharks along the New Jersey shore."

SAYS WOMAN HAS WON WORLD PLACE

Mrs. Shaal Tells Salesmanship Congress Prejudice Has Disappeared.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—Woman's place in the world has been discussed by her champions at departmental sessions of the world's salesmanship congress here this afternoon. The congress will close to-morrow with a business meeting, when Philadelphia will probably be selected for the 1917 meeting.

Mrs. Florence E. Shaal of Boston, talking to the counter sales section, said, "Woman's conscience and an inherent pride urge her always to her best endeavor. The innate prejudice against contact with the world which woman formerly cherished has disappeared in the last few years. She has learned she can maintain her self-respect and all her feminine attributes and still take her place side by side with man in any field."

A. A. Breed, president of a Cincinnati manufacturing company, who spoke to the traveling salesman's section, criticized the "price cutting manufacturer." He said manufacturers who take part in industrial warfare are individually at fault. One reason, he said, is that each manufacturer "is in the habit of considering himself always a scoundrel."

"When you realize how little the average manufacturer knows about economic conditions underlying his industry it is hardly to be wondered at that he acts miserably and selfishly," said Mr. Breed.

Edwin A. Walton, advertising manager of a Detroit manufacturing company, speaking on the "Correct Attitude Toward Advertising," told the traveling salesman that too many of them have regarded advertising as "highly mysterious and of a very doubtful value." He declared that effective advertising was the silent partner in the successful career of every salesman.

"Advertising is a poor closer, but a mighty good opener," he said. "Let us use it to open men's minds in preparation for our calls. Advertising can influence a million minds at once, at the cost of from a few cents down to the decimal part of one cent each. The million of advertising is to take the burden of educational work off the shoulders of the salesman and enable him to stand in better to the order."

Chairman of salesmanship in the leading universities and colleges of the country were advocated by Edward Hines of Chicago. He also declared that it was essential in salesmanship, which would include a thorough grounding in economics and practical business law.

Mr. Hines declared that it was essential that the modern salesman be one of the wonders of the business world. A fundamental factor in the new civilization, he said, had not received proper attention in the educational institutions of the country.

SEEK $250,000 LOST AT BOTTOM OF RIVER

Divers Seeking Stocks Mail Robbers Say They Threw in Hudson.

Thomas Benson and Louis Windler, his brother-in-law, who tried to escape from the Tomba last Saturday, were put on trial yesterday in the United States District Court before Judge Howe on charges of having robbed the mails of stocks, bonds and jewelry valued at more than $250,000.

All the plunder has been recovered except some securities worth approximately $250,000, which Benson says he threw into the North River at the foot of Forty-sixth street. Divers endeavored yesterday without success to recover these stocks.

Before the trial, Edward J. Quigley, accused of conspiring with Benson and Windler, pleaded guilty. Judge Howe postponed sentence so Quigley might be used as a Government witness. The trial will be continued to-day.

Lyman Taken to Atlanta Prison.

J. Grant Lyman, sentenced to serve eighteen months for using the mails to defraud, was taken to the Atlanta penitentiary by Deputy Marshal Bowler yesterday. After completing his sentence Lyman will be sent to California to serve fifteen months for the Panama land swindle.

SLEW HER HUSBAND IN SELF-DEFENCE LOVES ANOTHER, SO CAN'T GET ALIMONY

Mrs. Bentinger Says He Made Life a Hell and Shows Bruises He Inflicted.

NEWARK, July 12.—"I do not regret having killed my husband," Mrs. Christopher Bentinger told a reporter who visited her in her cell in the Essex county jail to-day.

The frail little woman, who is under arrest charged with shooting and killing her husband yesterday at their home in Caldwell, spoke simply and calmly. She seemed buoyed up by her contention that her act was justified because it was committed in self-defence.

"My married life," said she, "was a hell. I did not buy the pistol with the intention of taking his life. I bought it to protect myself from his brutality. Oh, if you could realize the indignities he heaped on me during the years of our married life and the cruelty with which he treated me! I once divorced him, but when he came to me swearing that he would be a good husband and a true father we were married."

Mrs. Bentinger bears on her throat the imprints of her husband's fingers left there in the struggle that took place when he entered her bedroom just before the shooting. One of her eyes is discolored, a finger is broken and her body is covered with bruises. Her half an hour this afternoon she was hysterical. Her five little children are still in the Caldwell house.

Friends of Mrs. Bentinger have been trying to obtain her release on bail, but the State Prosecutor has opposed this. She was visited by her counsel, Walter J. Brandley of Caldwell, who said that he thought the case would have to take the usual course.

Dr. Edward W. Markers, physician in the Essex county jail, examined Mrs. Bentinger and may be a witness for her when she is brought to trial.

ELKS WILL SHIELD FAMILIES.

Grand Lodge to Help Members Who Go to the Front.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12.—A resolution passed at to-day's session of the Grand Lodge of Elks puts the order on record as being "ready, willing and prepared" to shield from want the families of any of its members who shall go to the front in defence of American honor.

The authority vested in the board of grand trustees to give a premium of $2,500 to the successful author and composer of a national anthem that shall be adopted by the Congress of the United States was rescinded by another resolution which was adopted.

The Elks and their families to-day went on an excursion down Chesapeake Bay to enjoy a cran feast at Love Point.

WORKMAN'S APPEAL IS LOST.

Lower Court's Award to Widow Reversed by Appeals Court.

ALBANY, July 12.—Hearsay evidence cannot be made a basis for an award under the workmen's compensation law the Court of Appeals decided to-day. This ruling was made in a decision reversing the Appellate Court and dismissing an award of a death benefit granted to Bridget Carroll of New York, whose husband's death was alleged to have been caused by an abdominal injury received while delivering ice.

Before Carroll died he told his wife that a 300 pound cake of ice had fallen on him. His employers produced testimony that no such accident happened. In making its award the Industrial Commission based its action on the testimony of Carroll's wife and the attending physician.

Gipsy Dale's Letters About Soldier Cause Justice to Refuse Award.

Gipsy Dale, an actress, failed in the Supreme Court yesterday to get an order for alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her suit for separation from her actor husband, Arthur Lacey, who is in London. Justice Whitaker denied the application because of letters Mrs. Lacey had written admitting that she loved another man, a young Canadian soldier named in the letters as "B. Young."

The Laceys were married in Philadelphia in 1910. In the separation suit the young woman charged her husband with cruelty and failure to provide for her. Lacey, through his lawyer, Max D. Steiner, submitted an affidavit including copies of letters which he said his wife wrote to him. One was written on stationery of the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on February 1, a few days after Lacey returned to New York from Boston to find that his wife was not at the Hotel Margaret, where he had expected to join her. It said:

"I have seen B. Young. Well, ever since we first met we have been in love with each other. Although we have not corresponded nor seen each other for three years, I have continued to you all this time that I didn't care for him, but I always have and always will. Remember, you have said many times that if I ever found him again and he still cared for me I could go, so I really think the only proper course is for us to separate. And it is so terribly wrong to be living with one man and loving another."

"It is going to the front and for all I know I may never see him again, but that would make no difference so far as my feelings are concerned. I don't think I need to tell you that so far as morals are concerned no one can point a finger at us."

Lacey says he begged his wife to return to him, but she wrote other letters asking him to "take things in a reasonable way" and to "be a man."

ROOSEVELT TO BE HERE TO-DAY

To Confer With Men Who Are Helping to Raise Volunteers.

OSTREE, N. Y., July 12.—Col. Roosevelt will go to New York to-morrow to confer with several of the men who are aiding him in raising the Roosevelt military division of 20,000 volunteers. The conference will be held at the offices of the Metropolitan Magazine. The Colonel is devoting almost his entire time to this work and is immensely pleased with the progress already made.

While the conference on the division matter will take up most of the Colonel's day it is not improbable that he and Chairman McLean R. of the Republican National Committee will find time for a brief chat. Among the things they will probably discuss will be the proposition of having the Colonel make three or four speeches in Maine during the State election there in September.

Steamer Yuna Picked Off Reef.

THURSDAY, July 12.—The American steamship Yuna, which left New York July 2 and ran ashore last Friday night on Drum Point reef, Calcasieu Island, left here to-day for Santa Domingo. A large part of her cargo was lost.

Appeals Court Takes Revers.

ALBANY, July 12.—The Court of Appeals to-day took a recess until July 21 at which time it is expected a decision will be rendered on the constitutionality of the reappointment act of 1914.

$35,000 A WEEK FOR STRIKERS.

Rich Men Arranging to Give Aid to Cloak Makers.

At the close of a two hour conference between striking cloak makers and manufacturers in the Metropolitan tower yesterday everybody apparently was in good humor, and the manufacturers expressed hope that the strike would be settled soon. William Klein, attorney for the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers Protective Association, reported progress and said the conference committees will meet again to-day.

It was announced that a number of wealthy men are arranging to give the strikers $35,000 a week in addition to the funds now being raised by the unions, until an agreement is reached by the conference committees. It is said that Samuel Untermyer and Jacob H. Schiff have pledged the strikers $2,500 a week.

Famous "Cabbie" Dies Suddenly.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Henry Hogan, familiarly known as "Hogan's Hogan," the oldest cabbie in Chicago, who in the campaign of 1912 was named by some of his friends as candidate for the nomination for Congressman at large from Illinois and who was asked only one hundred votes of receiving the nomination, died suddenly at his home here to-day. Hogan had driven a cab for almost fifty years and was known to travelers from all parts of the country.

MONTCLAIR ELECTS BOARD.

2,885 Votes Cast in Contest for Five Commissioners.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., July 12.—In the election of five Commissioners to take the place of the present Mayor and Council here Louis F. Dodd, E. Mortimer Harrison, John Picken, John C. Barclay and Charles G. Phillips were chosen. There were 2,885 votes cast.

There was some fear before the election that one of the two negro candidates might be elected, as there is a large negro population here. But the vote of the negroes was divided. There were thirty candidates on the ballot.

BEER IN HOT WEATHER

OF all hot weather beverages Beer is the safest, and it is an ideal throat quencher as well.

Besides being a delightful beverage, its moderate use aids in the digestion of food taken and also furnishes additional nourishment. Its clean, satisfying bitter stimulates the appetite, and owing to its composition and character of its ingredients supplies a considerable amount of easily digested nutritive material.

Dr. Culver, a German physician, writing in the Allg. Wiener Medical Zeitung, said:—
"Beer is not merely a food luxury but a valuable source of nourishment, for it is capable of favorably influencing effective strength, even in cases of inadequate nutrition. A bottle of Beer, Bacon and Bread for the noontime meal renders a man capable of the hardest work."

As a properly brewed, wholesome Beer of absolute purity we advocate the use of
